Craftsmanship Award

This is the Chapter's highest public award, presented to a member, non-member, or organization whose work has contributed to the public's increased awareness of the built environment.

Rebekah Jameson

Richard L. Ford Jr. Award

This is considered the Chapter's highest award presented to a young architect, associate member, or intern. It is given in honor of one of the Chapter's leading and skillful mentors, Richard L. Ford, Jr. FAIA. The award shall be made by the Chapter Board, based on nominations by the Honors Committee, to a young person who has demonstrated vision, passion, and excellence to the design community.

Jacob Sherry, AIA

Presidential Citation

A Presidential citation is awarded to people and organizations that go above and beyond to contribute to the architecture profession and/or their community. Presidential Citations are a privilege of the AIA President and are expressions of the President's viewpoint, unlike design awards and other AIA recognitions that represent more formalized jury selection processes.

Kenney Payne

Marcellus Wright Jr. Award

This is considered the Chapter's highest individual award. It is given in honor of one of the Chapter's founding members, Marcellus Wright, Jr. by the Chapter Board, based on nominations by the Honors Committee, to a long time Chapter member who has demonstrated continuous service to the profession through their work. This award is intended to provide public recognition to a distinguished member of the Chapter.
